

A Private Polo Invitational · Jaipur

The Jaipur Polo Week

Seven days of chukkers, palaces and patronage, played across the historic grounds of the Pink City.

07 Days · Four Grounds · October–November or March

Welcome to Jaipur

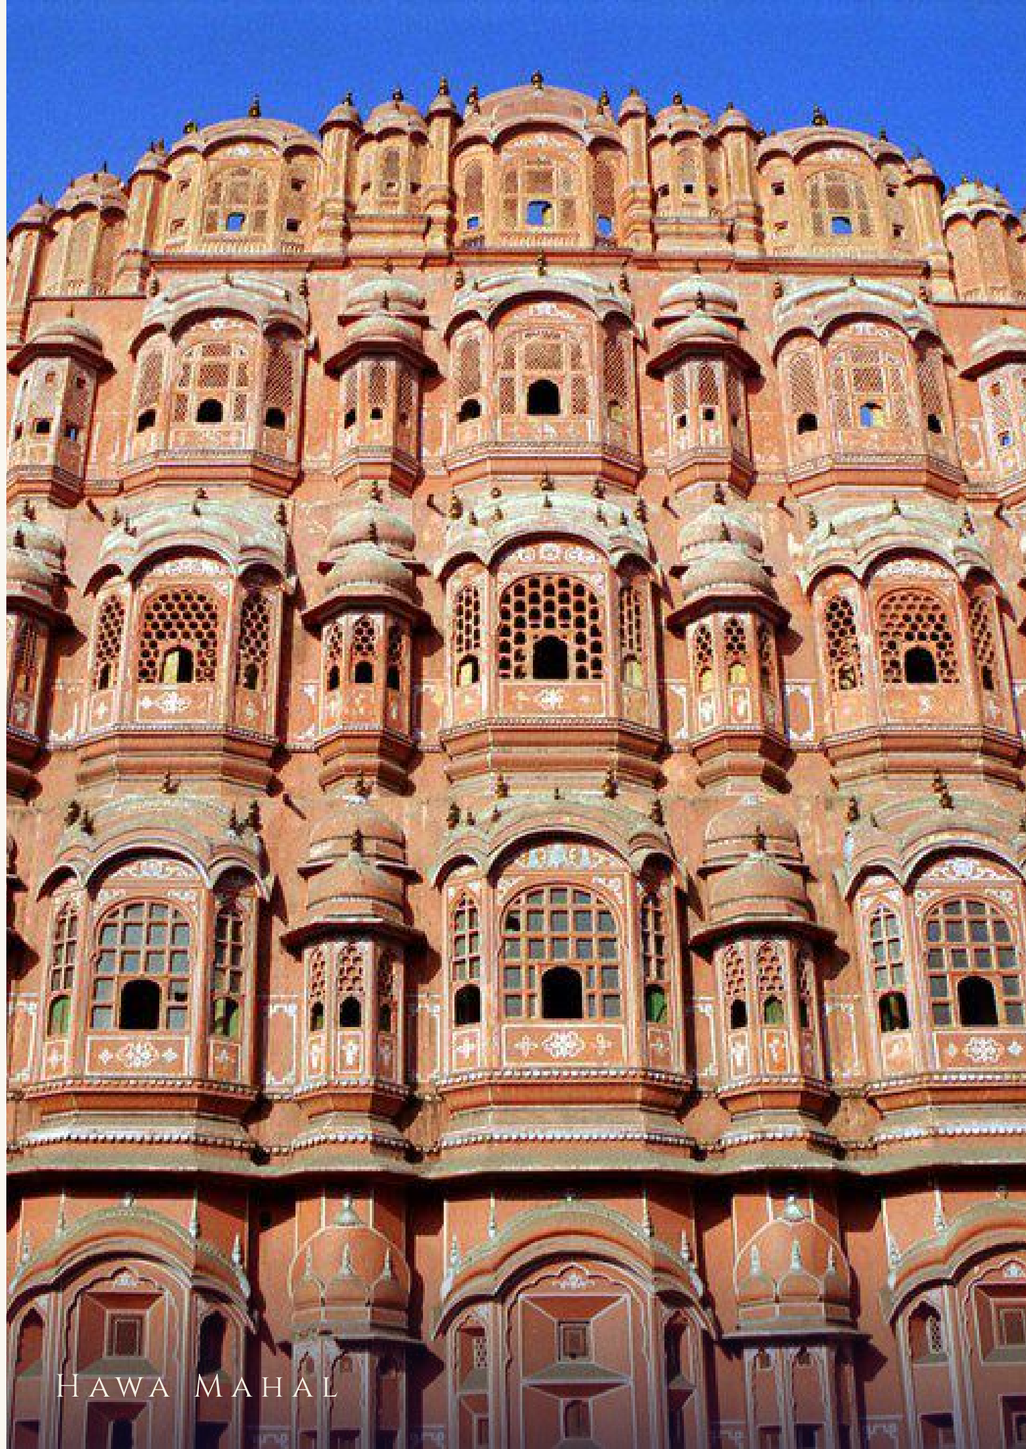

The Pink City

A rose-washed capital laid out in 1727 by Maharaja Sawai Jai Singh II — a city of palaces, courtyards and broad ceremonial avenues, and one of the oldest seats of polo in India, where the game has been kept by its royal house for generations.

The Premise

A week built around the game.

Polo each day on the grounds where it has always been played; the city's palaces and forts between matches; and the calm of a royal house to return to each evening. Sport, heritage and hospitality, held in balance.

I

The Field

Matches, stick-and-ball and chukkers on four historic grounds, with mounts, grooms and umpires fully arranged.

II

The Heritage

Forts, courtyards and the City Palace — the Pink City opened privately, between and after play.

III

The Table

Cocktails within fort walls, lunches at the ground, and a closing dinner with the players and the royal house.

Section I · Days 01–02

Arrival

Into the Pink City and the Rambagh Palace — the stables, and the first chukkers on Jaipur's oldest ground.

Day One · Arrival in Jaipur

Arrival & the Stables

A private welcome to the Pink City, and a first afternoon among the horses.

On Arrival

Arrive in Jaipur and transfer privately to the Rambagh Palace, the former residence of the Maharaja. Settle in; the rest of the day is yours.

Afternoon

A first visit to the stables, meet the strings, the grooms, and the ponies that will carry you through the week.

Evening

A welcome dinner at Suvarna Mahal, an elegant introduction to Rajasthan's royal culinary traditions, within the former residence of the Maharaja of Jaipur.

Day Two · The Rambagh Ground

First Chukkers at Rambagh

Stick-and-ball at first light, then the opening match on Jaipur's oldest ground.

Morning

An early start at the stables for stick-and-ball as the city wakes, then breakfast back at the palace.

Afternoon

The first match of the week at the Rambagh Polo Ground — the cradle of the Jaipur game — before returning to rest as the light goes.

Evening

Drinks and dinner at the historic 61st Cavalry Mess, a rare glimpse into one of India's most distinguished cavalry traditions.

Section II · Days 03–04

The Grounds

Match after match across the historic fields — Mundota and its fort, and the last serving horsed cavalry.

Day Three · Rambagh → Mundota

The Fort at Mundota

A morning at Rambagh, an afternoon at Mundota, and dinner within the fort walls.

Morning

A morning match at the Rambagh ground, then back to the palace to rest through the heat of the day.

Afternoon

To the Mundota Polo Ground for the afternoon match, carry a change of clothes for the evening.

Evening

Cocktails and dinner at Mundota Fort, the tables set within its illuminated walls.

The 61st Cavalry Ground

Day Four · The 61st Cavalry

The Cavalry Ground

A morning with the last horsed cavalry, then back to Rambagh.

Morning

A morning match at the 61st Cavalry ground, host regiment to the world's last serving horsed cavalry.

Afternoon

Return to rest, then an afternoon match on the Rambagh ground, home by dusk.

Evening

An exclusive evening at the Jaipur Polo Club with guests, celebrating the city's enduring association with the sport of kings.

Stay — Rambagh Palace · Jaipur

SECTION III · DAYS 05–06

The Final

The patrons' match, the final at Rambagh, and an evening within the City Palace.

Day Five · The Patrons' Match

Patrons' Match & Stick-and-Ball

A patrons' match, a long lunch, and stick-and-ball in the evening light.

Morning

A patrons' match, followed by drinks and an unhurried lunch laid out at the ground.

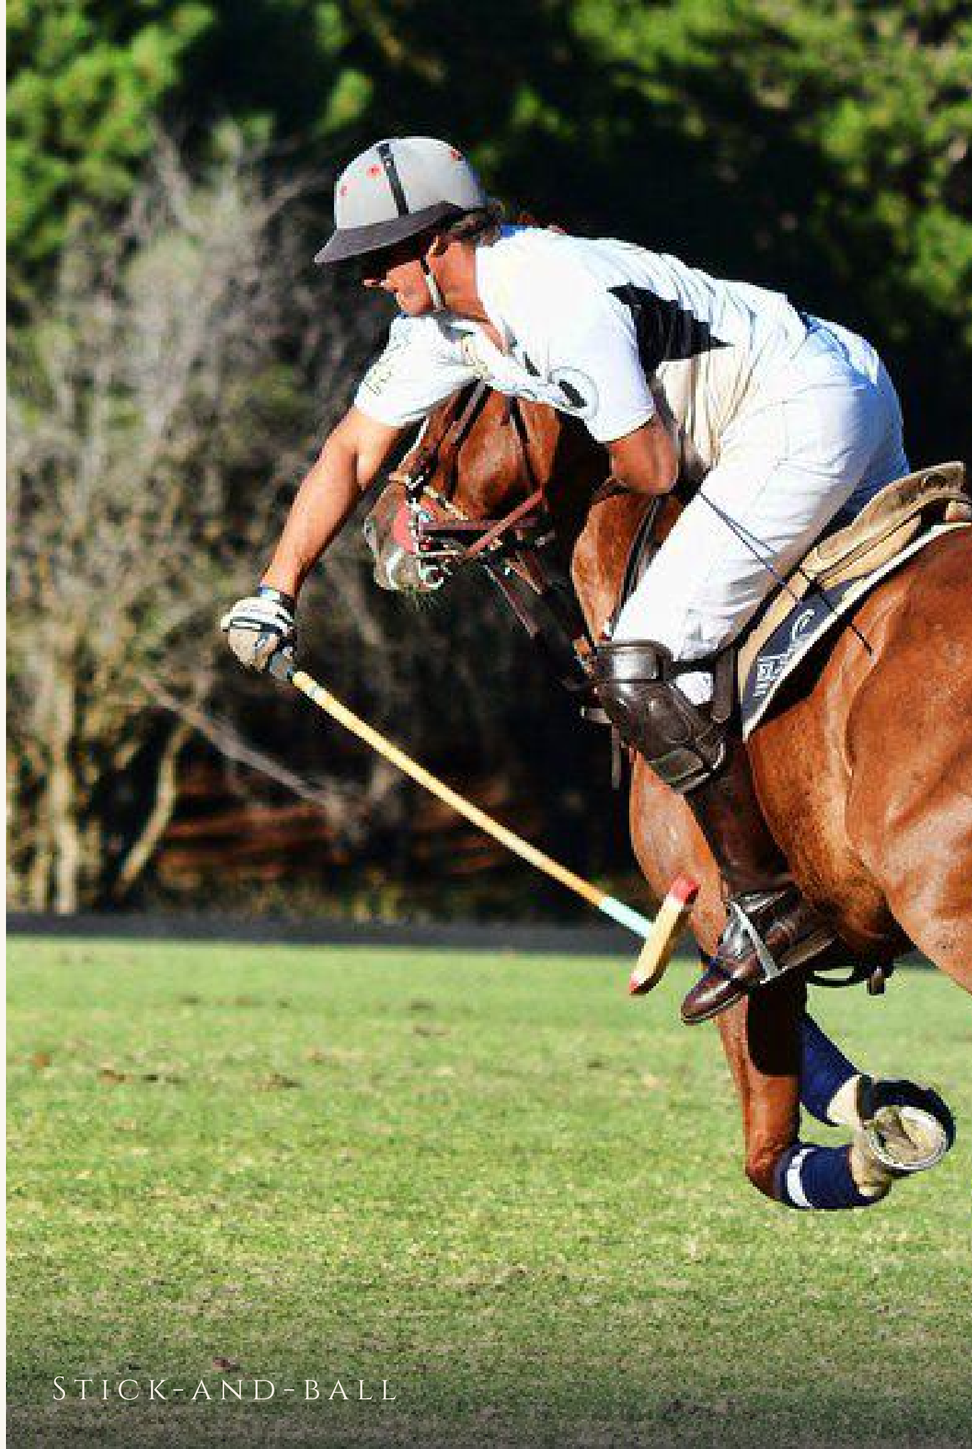

Afternoon

Stick-and-ball at the Rambagh ground as the afternoon cools and the light turns gold.

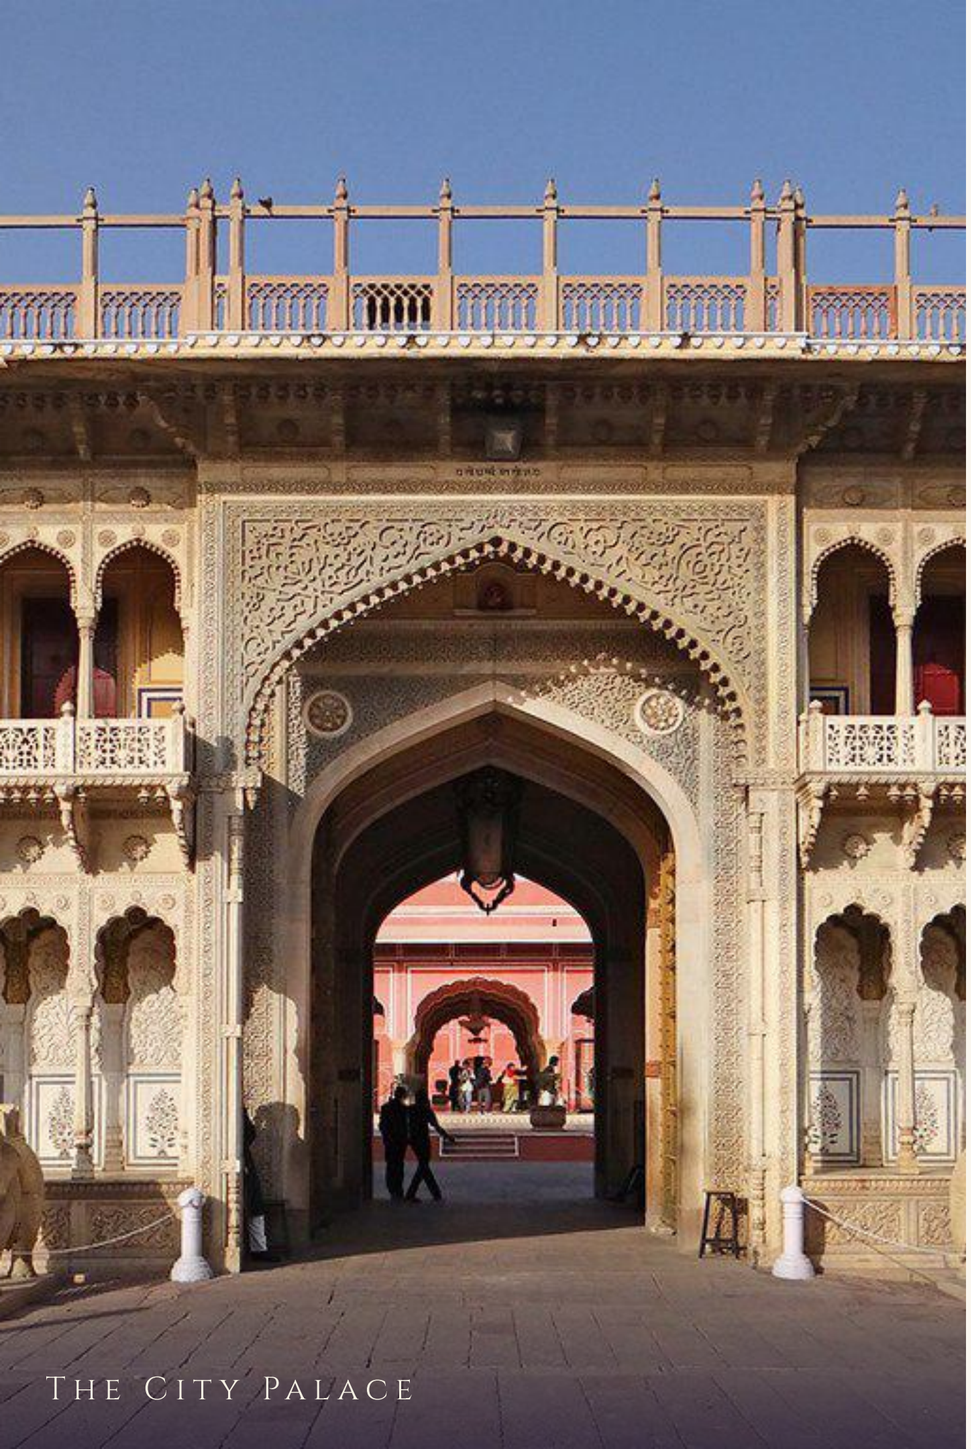

Evening

Dinner at Dera Amer, set amidst the Aravalli Hills, a wilderness-inspired dining experience under open sky.
